Dear Mr. Meredith,

You don't know me, but I have heard quite a lot about you. Writing this letter just came to me on the spur of the moment, and I'm afraid I'm quite inexperienced in this, but the reason that I did write you this is to tell you that I respect you very highly in what you are doing. I am a 15 year old white girl, but I've learned enough in my 15 years to know that color makes no difference in friendship. We both have the same father (God) which makes you my brother in an indirect sense, but I would be very proud to have a brother like you. I have read the book "A Doctor Alone" which is about Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman doctor, and I think that you are like her, a pioneer, but in your own field. Always remember that if you ever have doubts about giving it up, just take it to the Lord.

God Bless you.

Sincerely,
Pat Miller
